

The Intelligencer.

Office: Nos. 25 and 27 Fourteenth Street.

By telegram received here on yesterday from Col. Benjamin Wilson, we learn that his wife will be buried temporarily at Clarksburg to-day.

The Steubenville Furnace and Iron Company's Blast Furnace and Coal Works, were sold at Sheriff's sale yesterday afternoon to H. Sherrard, Esq., of Steubenville, for the sum of $60,000. This furnace was built in 1870 at a cost of over $250,000, and is an excellent coal and furnace property. Mr. Sherrard informs the Steubenville Gazette, that as soon as the sale is confirmed, he intends to form a company for the purpose of operating the furnace, and that he will not allow it to remain idle.

The new management of the Belmont Mill have selected the officers for their establishment, and are making preparations toward an early start of the mill in all its departments. The Finance Committee, as well as by an advertisement elsewhere, offer for sale $100,000 of the bonds of the mill, bearing seven and three-tenths per cent interest, payable semi-annually. These bonds will be sold by bid, for which proposals are invited, but no bid will be considered that is for less than their par value. This affords an excellent opportunity for the investment of idle capital, which we presume will be readily embraced, and the bonds disposed of without trouble.

The Case of Eli B. Lee.

Civilian Leader, August 9.

"With a magnanimity unparalleled in history, the Republican party has pardoned those who sought to destroy the national life, and has even removed the political disabilities from those of them who asked for such relief. Excepting a few assassins no one has been punished for treason. Within a few months, Jeff Davis himself, the man who before all others was responsible for the tortures and death endured by thousands of Union soldiers in the prison pens of the South, has been lauded to the skies on the floor of the United States Senate by Democrats, for 'heroism, fortitude, patriotism and devotion unequalled in this world's history.' Chalmers, the Fort Pillow butcher, leads the Southern Democracy in Congress; even Blackburn, who would have introduced pestilence into New York city and slain thousands upon thousands of unoffending men, women and children by the most horrible diseases, lives to be honored by the Democracy with election as Governor of Kentucky. This is one side of the picture.

There is another. At Moundsville, in West Virginia, there is a State penitentiary in which a man named Lee is imprisoned under sentence for life. Lee is of the Democratic party. The pardons of the Democratic Governor, like those of the imbecile Governor Bishop, of Ohio, flow out thick and fast to burglars, robbers and other pests to society, but none issues for Eli Lee, and he is to be guilty of the unpardonable sin.

What was it? In 1862, while on guard over some rebel prisoners, one of them attempted to escape. He called to him to halt. He kept his rifle fixed on him and when he saw that Lee did his duty as a soldier, he let him go. He did not have to subject him to severe punishment under the laws of war. A court-martial investigated the case and honorably acquitted him. He served in his company honorably till the war ended. Then he went back to West Virginia, was arrested, tried for the murder of his escaping prisoner, found guilty and sentenced to life in the penitentiary for life. How would it have been had he been a rebel guard and killed a Yankee prisoner? How if he had been a rebel bushwhacker and had shot the cabin of non-combatants and shot them dead? How if he had been a rebel guard and taken the lives of unoffending Union men on the highway? Why, then, would he have been a hero in the eyes of Southern Democrats. Then Senators Coke and McMillan, and other Democrats, all the rest on the roll, would have gloried in him as they do "the battle-scarred knightly Jefferson Davis." Then they would have extolled his manhood, talent, purity of personal character, patriotism and all the rest of it. But he was the hated blue. He did his duty as a Union soldier. He fills a felon's cell in the penitentiary for life.

There is a Union soldier who has for a month endured the horrors of voting the Democratic ticket, of elevating to place and power the associates and apologists of those who enslave Jeff Davis, and make political idols of Chalmers and Blackburn, let him sit down for a moment and think of the scoundrel murderers who kept guard at Andersonville, Belle Isle, Salisbury, Cahawba—the list is too long to name—and then of Eli Lee, in his cell at Moundsville, West Virginia, and ask him to be caught in a trap. He is a lying proverb that "blood is thicker than water."

Republican National Convention.

From the Independent Journalist.

The basis of representation in the Republican National Convention should be changed. As it stands, it is not just nor fair in its operation. The basis of representation acted on for many years has been one delegate for each Representative and Senator in Congress, giving each State the same number of votes in the convention that it has in the Electoral College. This rule is purely arbitrary, and without reference to the Republican vote cast by the States. The effect of it is to give undue weight in the convention to States which are solidly and overwhelmingly Democratic. It is not only unfair but unsafe, since it places it in the power of States to make nominations which are contrary to nothing to the election. The true basis should be that which the National Committee should adopt, is the Republican vote cast either at the last national or the last preceding State election. This would be fair to all, and no State could reasonably complain. It would give proper weight in the convention to the States which cast the heaviest Republican vote, and weight to each State in the same proportion. In the States at all closely balanced the change of basis would probably effect no change in the number of delegates, but those States which are overwhelmingly Democratic would be reduced, and those which are largely Republican would be increased. The change is one which the National Committee has power to make, and it should be made as a matter of justice and expediency.

Care and effect are inseparable, and to make any effect the cause must be removed.

Particularly in disease. Dr. Bull's Baltimore Pills always work radically, and to cure the cause. Price only 25 cents.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

The Shadows of Death Still Resting Over Memphis.

Memphis, August 12.—Twenty-two cases in all were reported to the Board of Health to-day, ten of whom were colored. Among the whites were James Scholes, George Weiss and George Getz. Two additional deaths have occurred, Annie Miller and John Swannard. Three tents will be sent to White Haven, Tenn., tomorrow, to which will be removed the people who are living in the dwellings where Mrs. Bolton lies sick with fever. H. Gibson, bookkeeper of the Daily Appeal, was stricken with the fever this evening. Ed. Moon is dying, and all arrangements have been made for his burial. W. W. Gays is worse to-night. Weather sultry and rain threatened.

No Let Up in the Ravages of the Fall Destroyer.

Memphis, August 12.—The ravages of the fall destroyer are still going on. The crop of wheat is being destroyed in many places.

A Panic at Corinth, Miss., Over the Appearance of Fever.

Corinth, Miss., August 12.—A private letter to the Appeal from Corinth, Miss., dated 4 A. M., August 11, says that a perfect stampede of the citizens is in progress, owing to the illness of the Mayor and President of the Board of Health, who are supposed to be sick with yellow fever. They were attacked with sudden illness Sunday afternoon, and the opinion of their attending physician is that their sickness is yellow fever. It is thought that their coming in contact with citizens fleeing from Memphis at the quarantine caused infection.

Gov. Robinson, of New York, on High-Toned Forgers.

Albany, August 12.—Governor Robinson received a letter from ex-Governor Seymour, enclosing a petition for the pardon of Wm. K. Newman, a forger, now serving a term in State prison. The Governor in his reply says forgers seem to have become the usual and fashionable crime of intelligent and educated men of previous good reputation, and declines the exercise of executive clemency in favor of their class.

Bold Daylight Robbery at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, August 12.—A party of five men, armed with revolvers, entered the office of the Commercial Appeal and Cincinnati Enquirer, and stole $10,000 in cash and bonds.
